Get the facts about a Constitutional Convention

Pete Savage
Legislative Representative
Legislative and Political Department

- New York State Constitution (Article 19, § 2).
 - Every 20 years the people of the Empire State are asked a seemingly simple ballot question; “Shall there be a convention to revise the constitution and amend the same?”

- The question will appear on the top of the ballot on November 7, 2017
- It will have a huge impact on not only NYSUT members, but every citizen of the state

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION
VS.
CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

What's the difference?

FIRST PROCESS

The state constitution can be amended in two ways.

By passage of individual bills for specific purposes, by two separately elected state Legislatures (Article 19, §1).

- Bills passed then appear on the November ballot and need 50% + 1 to pass.
- This process has been used nearly 200 times since the last major constitutional redraft in 1894.
- Process was undertaken in 2013 for several changes including:
 - Casino Gaming in New York state-Passed
 - Sale of specific tracks of land within the constitutionally protected Adirondack Park- Passed
 - Increasing the mandatory retirement age for state judges: Failed

This process was again used in the fall of 2014 for two more proposed changes

- Creation of an Independent Commission on Redistricting- Passed
 - Changes to election districts based on the 2020 US Census; and
 - New lines will be in place for the 2022 elections.
- Allows Senate and Assembly to go paperless-Passed
 - Constitutional requirement-paper bills must sit on legislators desks for three days;
 - Would allow bill being “in print” to count toward the three days; and
 - Will save $325,000 a year in paper and printing costs

SECOND PROCESS

- Holding a constitutional convention (Article 19, §2)
- Question goes before the voters every 20 years
- Allows for much wider modifications of the constitution; including a full rewrite

- If the voters approve, a multi-year process starts:
 - 2018 - Three delegates per- state Senate District and 15 at-large delegates are elected at the next scheduled general election - 204 delegates in total;
 - These delegates can include sitting members of the state Legislature, political party leaders or other office holders;
 - These delegates are allowed to hold both their elected office and a position as a delegate; collecting both salaries;
 - Convention meets in Albany in 2019 for an unspecified duration, deliberates and then publishes their suggested amendments;
 - Proposed changes are then submitted to the votes, either individually or as a group – as done in 1967; and
 - Another public referendum vote not sooner than six weeks after the adjournment of the convention.

- This convention process has been used nine times (1777, 1801, 1821, 1846, 1867, 1894, 1915, 1938, 1967) to undertake major re-writes of the state constitution.
- Some of these conventions succeeded with voters accepting the suggested changes, as in 1938, while other convention recommendations were rejected by the voters, as in 1967.

WHY IS THIS SO IMPORTANT TO ME
AS A NYSUT
MEMBER?

What's at stake?

- The constitution establishes a basic organizational structure for state government
- Changes could be made are made that give too much power to one branch, for example say the executive. This could unbalance power and weaken the legislature.

- The constitution establishes the fundamental rights you enjoy as a citizen of New York state, as a public employee, and as a retired public employee, including:
 - Guaranteeing the right to a free public education (Article 11, § 1);
 - Prohibiting reductions in public pension benefits (Article 5, § 7);
 - Rights to workers compensation (Article 1, § 18);
 - Rights to be a member of a union and bargain collectively (Article 1, §17); and
 - Requiring that the state provide for social welfare needs (Article 27, § 1).

- The constitution sets the most important policy goals for the people of New York state.
 - Changes will affect every other law currently in place and will impact future statutes.
- The passage of proposed changes in 1967 would have impacted the 2015 legislative session

1967 CONVENTION

- A decade after the 20 year scheduled referendum was voted down in 1957.
- Following the convention, voters rejected the proposed changes – 85.1% to 27.9%.
- Included proposed repeal to the “Blaine Amendment” which prohibits the use of state monies to be used to assist religious schools
- Had this repeal not been rejected by the voters, public education would look very different in New York

HOW DO I HELP
WHO ELSE WILL BE WITH US?

- Voters rejected the last required call for a constitutional convention in 1997.
 - Rejection was not by accident.
- Many groups worked together to convince voters that holding a convention was not in the best interest of the people of the state.

These groups included:

- Public and private organized labor;
- Environmentalists and conservationists who did not want to see the repeal of the “forever wild” provisions that protect environmentally sensitive areas;
- Advocates for public education at all levels;
- Casino & gaming interests who don't want to see additional expansion

These groups include

- Social welfare advocates who will seek to maintain the requirement that New York State provide for the underprivileged;
- Fiscal conservatives who wanted to keep existing state and debt limits in place; and
- Some government watchdog groups who just didn't want to “spend the millions of dollars to hold a party in Albany!”

- Will need to work together again in 2017 to make sure voters understand just what could happen if we open up the state constitution to drastic changes through convention
- 2017 is an “off” election year for the state Legislature as well as an “off” year for presidential voting

- 2015-2016 Executive Budget Proposal- Governor seeks a Constitutional amendment to strip public officials of their pensions based on 2011 law doing just that
- Passed the Senate, not the Assembly...but will come up during the 2016 session. If passed, could appear below the Constitutional Convention question on the 2017 ballot.
- We will need to factor this in going forward

NEW FACTORS

- Siena Research Poll- July of 2015
 - 75% of voters have heard nothing about the 2017 Constitutional Convention vote
 - 2/3 of voters polled currently support holding a Constitutional Convention- 69% to 15%
 - Support crossed every major demographic- race, gender, income & age
- Secessionist movement
 - Small but vocal secessionist movement in the southern Tier, major issues with lack of gas fracking and SAFE Act, could start calling for the 2017 Constitutional Convention as a way to meet their goal of splitting the state
 - Even if convention vote goes in favor, secession is highly unlikely, but their support should be factored in for the overall vote in 2017

NEW FACTORS

- A group forms to educate voters on 2017 ballot
 - Rockefeller Institute of Govt. at SUNY:
 - Govt. Law Center at Albany Law School
 - League of Woman Voter of NYS
 - Center for Research, Regional Education & Outreach at SUNY New Paltz
 - Senia Research Institute

Group will not take a position on the issue, only to educate the public on the issues at stake and the process used to call a convention.

- Will need to concentrate our efforts on this important issue
- Get involved with your local, stay active with the political process starting today, get informed on the important issues surrounding a constitutional convention and be ready to work come 2017
- Start writing letters to the editor against the 2017 Constitutional Convention- use broad arguments
- Start talking to your family and friends about the vote to begin to sway them toward voting no-use personal arguments
